

Strathclyde Fraud Squad researched the market to find not just a product but a technology that was geared towards investigative research capable of handling many different document format types, that was powerful enough to be able to find the proverbial 'Needle in a hay stack' yet be intuitive enough to make it available to all officers involved in the many different inquires.

The Fraud Squad includes the Financial Investigation Unit which also has Officers remotely placed at 9 territorial divisions. All the scanning is carried out at Fraud Squad H/Q enabling research to be carried out on the data at any of the 9 remote Fraud Squad sites connected to the WAN.

The power of the system has already reduced the work load in collating and indexing documents but most importantly is providing far greater power of research for all the investigating officers in order to find the evidence and build a case.
